Carpe Diem. Seize the day. What does it mean. First of all, it means dispelling the myth that we are average. No one is average. Each person possesses the potential for greatness, whether it be as small as finishing the fifteen page term paper at 4:49 the morning it is due, or as frustrating as graduating in four years (no small feat!). But what does seizing have to do with it? Carpe Diem means just that - seize the day. We are here for a short time in the grand scheme of things. We are alive and kicking for a twinkling of an eye on this earth, and we must make the most of it. We cannot think, "Oh, I will do it tomorrow." There is no tomorrow.. Make your life extraordinary. The possibilities only depend on the extent of your imagination and desire.

SEIZE THE DAY

FOLLOW YOUR DESIRE

EXPRESS YOURSELF

STRIVE TO SUCCEED

Dr. Irvin D. Reid

"More than any other generation which came before, members of your generation must be prepared to meet the challenges of a rapidly changing world."

"You are the bright promise of America's future. You will fulfill that promise if you understand that success is not measured by wealth or possessions, but by growth. Achievement must be guided by principles, both moral and intellectual. The accumulation of wealth or fame is an empty pastime without the rich rewards born of love and commitment.

If, by the time you graduate from Montclair State, you cannot look at a person today who comes from a different economic class and realize that you genuinely understand that person better than you do today, then the promise of America will remain unfulfilled.

If you cannot look at a person of the opposite sex and comprehend the vast changes that have taken place in American society with respect to gender roles and sexual stereotypes, then that promise will remain unfulfilled.

If you cannot look at a person of a different race and honestly say that you have grown through your efforts to understand the racial and ethnic tapestry of American life then the promise of America's future will remain tragically unfulfilled.

We, at Montclair, are ready to help you prepare for the challenges of citizenship and leadership, but the ultimate judgement of your success or failure will not be made here. It will be measured by the capacity for growth and giving that endures after you leave our halls. We expect you to do all you can to meet the challenges that lie ahead with courage and perseverance. We stand ready to work with you and cheer you on to success."

Maybe you want to own a business. Strive to make it a Fortune Five Hundred company. If you plan to be a doctor, explore to find a cure for cancer or AIDS. The world is yours for the taking. Grab it by the throat and make it give you what you desire. If you can dream it, it can be done. Carpe Diem also means not balking. If you indeed decide to "seize the day," you can not quit halfway. Carpe Diem means having the courage and perseverance to see things through. What is the sense of doing something, if you are never going to finish? Carpe Diem isn't just two words on this page, nor is it just Montclair State's motto. Carpe Diem is a state of being. Live for today, and pursue everything as if today was your last on this earth. The past is gone, and tomorrow never comes. We are torn into this world and are dependent on others for sustenance and love. We grow at a predetermined pace and are introduced to experiences that will shape our thoughts, longings and aspirations. We grow to make our own decisions. We must cut the apron strings and live by our own means. Carpe Diem is that very philosophy. Choose it. Make it happen - Seize the day.

...Seize the things that makes your life worth living...

As you leave these Hallowed Halls of Learning which have prepared you for tomorrow remember those words. "Seize The Day" with enthusiasm, deep desire, creative thinking and faith all through your life. Grasp life fully and make each moment count. Motivate yourself; commit yourself to finding success and happiness, and you will achieve your goals. Embrace the world and all its inhabitants with respect and compassion. While you are striving to achieve your goals, remember all who guided and supported you with their love and friendship. Reach out and make this world a better place. The world is yours.

CARPE DIEM

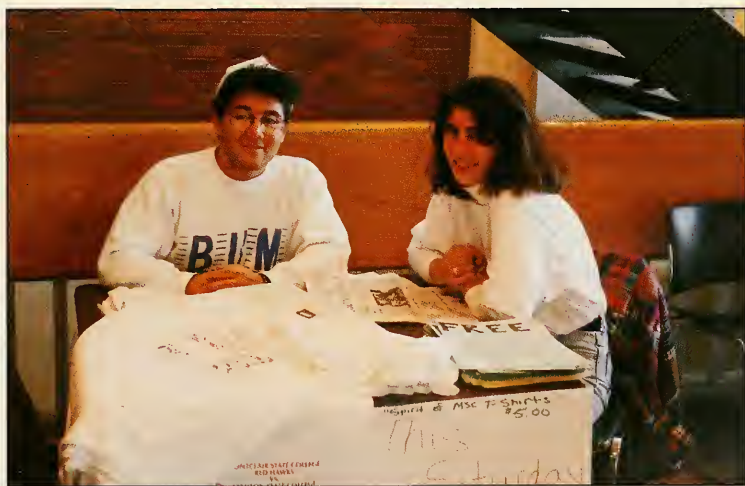

COLLEGE DAZE - Chemistry, calculus and fiction. Giving a speech? Practice your diction. Mid-term tomorrow, then final exam; Another all-nighter, time to cram. Got to study, pay your dues. Had enough? You have the homework blues. Crowded bathroom, noisy neighbor, people screaming like they're in labor. Crazy days in your dorm; you seem to differ from the norm. Big city kid or country hick, can't shake the feeling--you're homesick. Freshmen and sophomore years disappear fast, Junior year lingers, then it's your last. Bachelor of Science or of the Arts, after that the real world starts. Finally realize the hard work pays, you'll never forget your college days.

by Dan 'Dano' Olawski

I have passed through stages in life,
at times quite uncertain of what might...

Sometimes I would take a pause.
For only a moment did I want to let go of it all.

Enlightened and alive again,
facing another challenge,
I became stronger and able to manage.
Seeing sunny days,
despite clouds and rain,
with a positive frame of mind,
I went all the way.

Now I can proudly reflect back on great experiences shared with fellow students,
faculty and staff,
so forward we go, full speed ahead
and to all
Carpe Diem!-

-Mercedes Rodriguez

THE PREPARATION

AFTER SWEATING

IN THE RAIN

The float competition gives rise to outstanding floats that are dressed to impress, which only makes the judges' decisions more complex; to narrow it down to only one with the best appearance, originality and enthusiasm.

Soon afterwards, "THE GAME," is about to begin. This year it is Montclair VS. William Paterson. The turnout was a blowout; the Greeks, students, faculty, administration and residence life, WOW what a crowd.

THE COMPETITION IS ON !!!

WILL WE WIN ?

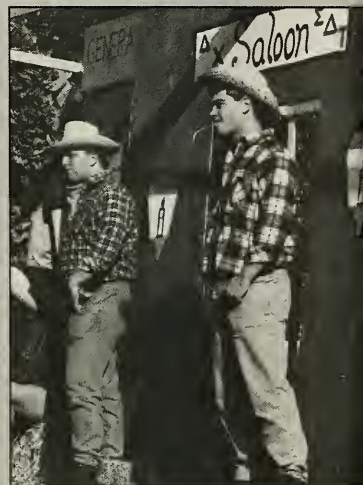

WE STAND A CHANCE ! ?

WORKING HARD

AND THE WINNERS ARE....

$\Delta X$  &  $\Sigma \Delta T$

SOME

Friday night, float building was our main event. As the evening progressed our efforts seemed to prove that satisfaction was a possibility.

Unknown to us then, we were about to meet with many obstacles. As time went by, we were easily irritated. Nothing was going right and to top it off came the rain.

Achieving our goal was our purpose, though. "Nothing could stop us", we thought. This attitude pulled us through the night.

Saturday morning our stand prevailed. Final touches here and there and practicing our skits were our focus. Nothing else to think about but that rush.

So after much anticipation, suspense and anxiety, the victory went to Delta Chi and Sigma Delta Tau. Congrats!

W.C.S.A. Annual Carnaval '93

The idea of celebrating CARNAVAL came about in 1975 when Juan De La Hoz & Ligia Perez, members of Weekend College Student Association Executive Board, suggested that a day of celebration take place, dedicated to all the students, ethnicities, and cultures of Weekend College.

In 1981, President Franz Buchhalter brought CARNAVAL from scattered points on campus and centralized it in MSC's Memorial Auditorium, where it had been ever since.

The tradition continues thanks to the efforts of those first students, those who have followed, and those still to come.

PLANETS

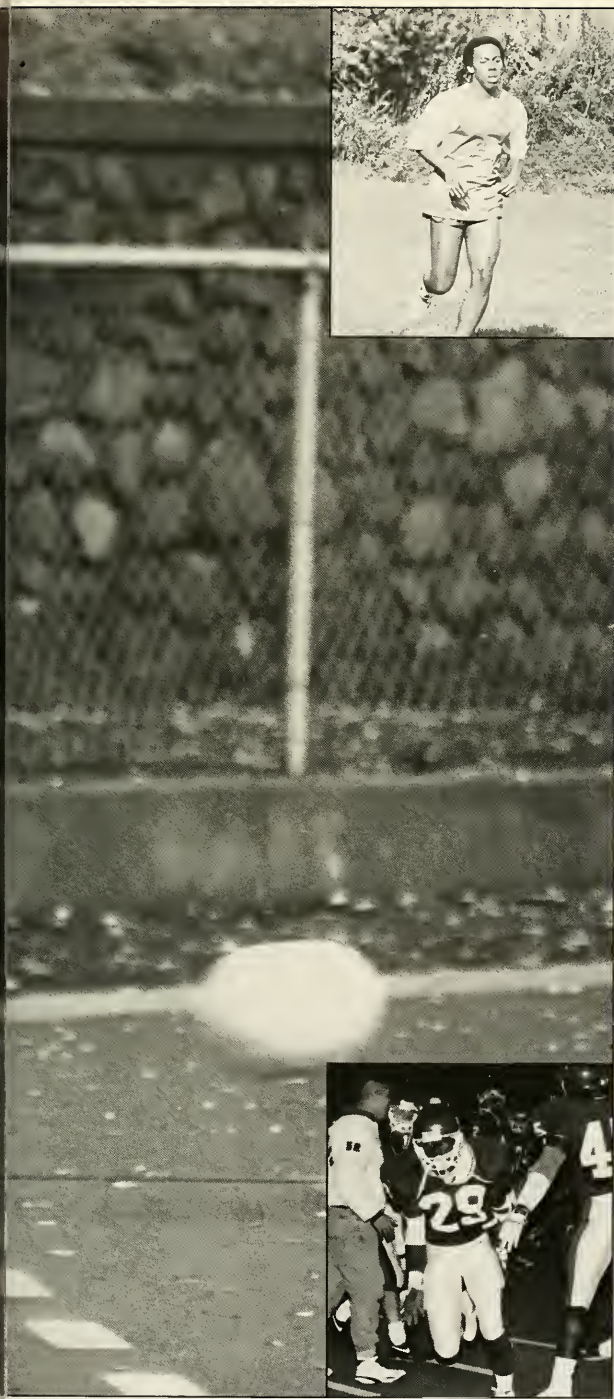

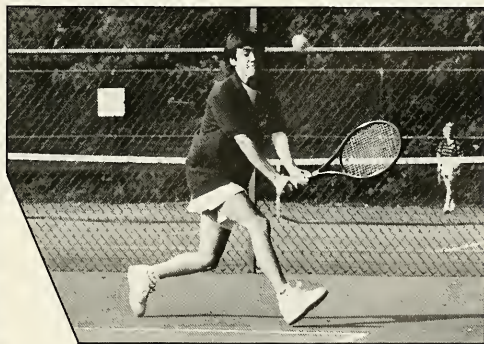

There are two seconds left. The ball is inbounded to you and you drive to the hoop. You pass the ball to a teammate who lays it up for the winning basket. Victory. This is basketball, only one of 22 intercollegiate sports played by students at MSC. There is something special about a student athlete. Along with being required to maintain a certain academic level, students must devote many hours in preparation. Athletes must go through a rigorous process before they are ready. There are training, workouts, practice drills, learning rules and regulations that govern and ensure the fairness of play and the honest pursuit of athletic excellence. There is the thrill of gametime and the exhilarating adrenaline rush as you face an opponent. You can't win every game or meet, but you're trying is a testament to the fortitude and dedication of those who play the sports at MSC.

Cheerleading

Football

Although MSC played at a high level for most of the 1992 season, it was not a team that had a preponderance of seniors on the squad. A tale of two seasons in one. A slow start that turned into a winning streak due to the defensive resurgence backed by mostly freshmen players and the offense sparkled as usual with the help of senior Johnny Walker. Despite injuries, MSC had a successful season that prematurely ended in the NJAC playoffs.

Football

Men's Basketball

Men's Basketball

Physical presence, rebounding and solid outside shooting provided the team with the winning formula for a highly eventful season. The philosophy of treating each athlete as a member of the family proved successful when three team members were cited by the conference despite an uphill start.

"What time is it? Let' see, it's 6:00 am. I got a twenty pager due at 8:00. I'd better get started. Funny yes, but this has undoubtedly occurred to a lot of students at MSC at one time or another. For most, however, studies are taken more seriously. Academics are the central reason why we are here at Montclair. Academics are the foundation for our advancement in our lives. Students work together with their teachers, advisors fellow students and administrators to create a community of higher achievement. We have grown as an institution of learning to the point where we are on the verge of becoming a university, the pinnacle for any school. Whether we gripe about classes being closed and the long lines to register, the rising cost of tuition or the inexplicable reason that just keeps us at a B+ rather than an A; we still must remember that we are on the same team.

STUDENT CENTER

In 1972, the Student Center was built with contributions and student activities fees. Even today the Student Center is funded by the students themselves. It is the focal point for student activities on this campus. The annex, which was completed in 1982 and is the most recent addition to the Student Center, is the home for class organizations of the S.G.A., the S.G.A. itself, as well as academic classrooms.

The library was originally dedicated to the second President of the college, Henry A. Sprague, in 1963, and it was recently renovated to update the study area and the services it offers to the school community. It contains well over one million books, periodicals, non-print items and video cassettes.

When Darrin King, a third year Commercial Recreation and Tourism major, walks into the library he often comments, "Look at the pretty windows."

The positive relationship between the library and second year Home Economics major, Selina Lawson, is not so rosy. Upon entering it her feelings are, "Where am I?" Because of all the construction going on, Selina finds it difficult to find the resources that she needs.

Dedicated in 1972 to the fourth President of the college, Thomas H. Richardson, the three-story Richardson Hall contains laboratories, offices, classrooms, three computer labs and a learning resource center.

Anne Caldiero, a senior Psychology major, finds that Richardson Hall has a very cold and drab environment.

Sam Rock, a third year Psychology major, says, "Richardson Hall has great computer labs, but they're always full."

Calcia Hall was dedicated in 1968 to Lillian Calcia, an alumna and the first chair-person of the Fine Arts Department. In this building there are studios for painting, sculpture, ceramics, photography, weaving and film. There are also faculty offices and a small theatre/auditorium.

Denise Chouinard, a graduating senior general humanities major, says, "Even though I took a course in Calcia four years ago, I still vividly remember the cold, depressing atmosphere, that, more often than not, induced me to go to sleep in my class."

This section is dedicated to the organizations chartered by the Student Government Association Incorporated. These organizations are categorized in four different classes. Class One organizations are 11 groups that receive full operating budgets from the S.G.A. They offer many varied and important experiences. Class Two groups may receive some funding from the S.G.A. They are mainly comprised of academic and ethnic organizations. Class Three groups have local affiliations. They, along with Class Four groups, have specialized membership. Classes Three and Four include fraternities and sororities, as well as social and philanthropic organizations. Class four groups have national sponsors. Through membership dedication there is LIFE beyond academics at

Four years or more we have endured.
Our future lay ahead of us, insecure.

Some dreams we will accomplish;
Some will fail.
But onward and forward
We must sail.

We are permitted to look back,
But we must always move on,
For when time has passed
It is forever gone.

Look into the future
And dream of what we will see.

Congratulations, graduates of MSC!

Senior Cruise '93

The Senior Cruise is an annual event that has become a tradition at Montclair State. One night each spring semester the students of Montclair State take to the rough seas of the Hudson River. A night of dancing, drinking and memories commences, and a good time is had by all.

COMMENCEMENT SPEECH FROM GOVERNOR JIM FLORIO

Thank you, President Reid, and thank you trustees, faculty, alumni, friends and family members. But most of all, thank you to the graduates of the class of 1993 for allowing me to be a part of this celebration. I remember receiving my own degree thirty-one years ago. It was a personal milestone. I know the thrill of accomplishment you feel. We tend to think of commencements as endings. But education does not stop when you leave college-- not if you're lucky anyway. The road to success is always under construction. As you make your way in the world, you will find many obstacles and detours separating you from where you want to be. Some of those obstacles will be personal challenges that will require you to think in new ways, to try new solutions. And I believe you will meet those challenges. Because each of you is leaving here today with something even more precious than your degree. You're leaving with skills and values you've honed here at Montclair State College. Skills like critical thinking and a disciplined mind. Values like the willingness to work hard and self-respect. You know, one of my heroes, Robert Kennedy, said that "each generation inherits a world it never made and each generation must make its own accounting to its children." Each of you has had responsibility before. But now you are prepared to shoulder more responsibility. The media likes to call you "the X generation" and "the MTV generation." But I believe you can be remembered for more than that. You can be remembered as more than that. You can be remembered -- if you choose -- as the generation that put America back on track, that helped restore the balance between rights and responsibilities, between self-interest and common interest, that has always been the source of strength. Today, as the responsibility is passed to your hands, it will not assume that someone else will bear major burdens, that someone else will make the difficult decisions, that someone else will feed the hungry, that someone else will defend freedom and preserve values and maintain culture. We must all do it, or it will not be done. When it comes to giving advice, I agree with Sir James Barrie, the man who created Peter Pan. "I'm not young enough to know everything." But I've learned a few things about making one's way in this world and finding meaning in it. Some of the lessons that have served me best are these: Don't just wish for change. Change things. Don't worry about failure. Worry about the opportunities you miss when you fail to try. Don't ever stop learning. Continue, as the philosopher Bertrand Russell said, to "hang a question mark on the things you've taken for granted." Above all, don't look to the past and cast blame. Look to the future and accept responsibility. None of us gets to choose the times we live in. But we do get the chance to determine how we respond to those times. In New Jersey, we're working to live up to our responsibility; by investing in our people -- in you and your potential. By creating good schools and colleges that will allow every New Jerseyman to reach their fullest potential and live their boldest dreams. We're working to live up to our responsibility by standing up to the NRA in order to keep Uzis and AK47s out of the hands of criminals. We're working to live up to our responsibility by putting New Jersey back to work, one job at a time. Finally, we're working to live up to our responsibility by creating not just new jobs but new industries like fiber optics and environmental technology. I've had to make a lot of difficult decisions these last three and a half years. Some of them I've disliked, especially the decision to raise taxes. I've made those decisions in a positive spirit. I made them in the belief that we will be better prepared for the future if we don't hide from the present. I made them because I am not willing to consign your generation to declining hope and a declining standard of living. If I've taken stands that have sometimes upset some people -- and I have -- it's because, as President Kennedy wrote in Profiles, I have "faith in people's ultimate sense of justice, faith in their ability to honor courage and respect judgement, and faith that in the long run they will act unselfishly for the good of the nation." When I look out at you, I believe those decisions were worth it. In you, I see strong, hopeful, educated people who share the responsibility of creating a stronger economy and a fairer society. As you move out in the world, I hope you never forget the lessons you learned here and that you continue to always reach a little bit higher, a little bit farther. Congratulations to all of you. And Godspeed.

COMMENCEMENT SPEECH FROM PRESIDENT REID

We meet here today to repeat an old ceremony and mark a new beginning. One of the pleasures of my position is to host and preside over this great occasion, to share in the joys of parents and friends, and to wish all of you well. This occasion also allows me to welcome such esteemed guests as our governor (and Mrs. Florio). We are especially proud to have Governor Florio here today, for he is a person who truly appreciates the value of education -- in particular a state college education. While this is a joyous day, it is not without some sadness and regret. Commencement is the beginning of the rest of your lives, but it is also a departure from faculty, friends, and your Montclair State family. Thus, while we have a farewell, we also beckon you to return. I hope that your education here serves as a reservoir that will renew and refresh you throughout your lives. I hope that you return here both in person and in spirit, to grace us with your success and share with us your challenges, and even your sorrows. For some of you who are graduating, this occasion may be less a formal ritual than a welcome relief. For some of you it is the culmination of a marathon of hard work. For others, it may seem as if the years have sprinted by, and this day has arrived much too soon. For all of you, this is a well deserved day of joy and celebration. So, I welcome and commend you, the class of 1993, and I welcome and congratulate your parents, spouses, family, and friends -- all those who have supported and cheered you in your journey, and now glory in its finish. I trust that you leave here both educated and enriched. For many people, college is a defining experience -- setting the course of their career, the web of their friendships, and the path of their intellectual development. I trust that when you look back on your years here you will find more than memorabilia of time past. Remember not simply what you have learned or experienced. Like runners in a relay race, reach back and carry on the very essence of our mission -- the simple yet mysterious act of teaching. At a time when knowledge is easily mistaken for trivia, and understanding is submerged in a bottomless sea of information, how important are wise teachers who help pilot us through uncertain waters? Without these beacons to guide us, modern education could become a misadventure without substance. We know that a teacher is more than a mere conduit of information. "Teachers believe they have a gift for giving," wrote A. Bartlett Giamatti. The teachers go beyond facts and formulas. In the old sense of the word, they profess: they publicly avow a belief, a truth, a love for their subject. The teachers we remember were genuine professors, committed to a truth, cause, or intellectual passion, whose voices and words still resound in our memory. Thus, it is my wish that all of you, in a sense, go on to become teachers -- in your work, in your families, and in most aspects of your lives. Hopefully, Montclair, an institution of teaching excellence, has taught you that education is not the gathering of information, but the pursuit of truth. Hopefully, we have taught you that learning and achievement must be guided by principles, both moral and intellectual, and that the accumulation of knowledge is an empty pastime without the deep rewards borne of love and commitment. Here, you have been given the best opportunity to prepare yourselves for the challenges of career and citizenship. Yet your education is hardly complete. The ultimate judgement of the success or failure of this institution will not rest solely with the facts and skills take away from this place. It will rest with the capacity for learning and teaching that endures long after you leave. Education is not the filling of a vessel, but the lighting of a flame. I wish you all the very best.

EDITORIAL POLICY OF LA CAMPANA

La Campana is published by the yearbook staff of Montclair State and serves as a medium of communication for its readers. It exists to inform its readers about school, community, nation world events, personalities, school policies and their changes and of course to entertain.

The 1992 - 1993 staff has established as editorial policy that:

1. Libelous and obscene material, profane or purposely disruptive statements will not appear in La Campana.
2. The staff of La Campana retains the right to choose content and to determine the priority of pictures and stories for its readers. No other individuals, other than the La Campana staff and its advisor, have the right to review the content of La Campana prior to publication. Final decisions involving all written and pictorial content of La Campana shall be made by the editors with suggested input from the advisor.
3. La Campana will strive to present the various topics in an objective manner. As much as possible, the sectional editors will be encouraged to research those views, policies or actions that are being reported so those involved may express their opinion in a feature. La Campana will attempt to use fairness, impartiality, accuracy, truthfulness and responsibility in presenting ideas to its readers.
4. La Campana will make clear distinction between factual and opinionated content. If opinion pieces appear, they will be labeled as such.
5. No specific endorsements will appear in this book.
6. Any reader with a grievance after La Campana has been published may request a discussion with the editors and advisor. Only those involved and members of the school administration may be present at the discussion.
7. La Campana will not discriminate against members of any group, be it minority or otherwise, in the amount of coverage, staff representation, or any other manner.
8. Proper channels will be followed in order to obtain permission to use copyrighted material.

MANAGING EDITOR'S FINAL STATEMENT

It seems we have reached another point in our lives, we do not know how to describe. Some would say it is a conclusion, yet others would view it as a beginning. Rather than try to choose where it is the staff of La Campana stands, let me say, the cycle continues. Although some of us bid our good byes, our past collaborative efforts will forever remain between these pages.

I'd like to thank everyone involved in putting this yearbook together. Special thanks to Gerry Salomone for his assistance and prompt attention to my questions throughout the year. Thanks to John O'Brien for his efforts as Photography Editor, Nancy Villano for serving the organization as executive business officer and many, many thanks to our Editor-in-Chief, Walter Kulick for helping me keep the staff on task. Thanks to the section editors for their work. The entire staff would like to thank everyone who contributed to, "La Campana, Carpe Diem '93."

A FEW WORDS TO MY MULTICULTURAL FRIENDS...

Ha llegado el momento en el que se recompensan nuestros valiosos esfuerzos. Nos marchamos de nuestra universidad con diplomas y títulos que iran con nosotros siempre. Felicidades a todos. Mucha suerte en el futuro y que realizen todas vuestras metas.

J'espere que tous mes amis ont tout ce qu'ils veulent des ses futurs. A notre recontrer dans la vie. J'y vous attendrai. Bonne chance et au demain.

Oggi e migliore perche i nostri sforzi hanno diventato una realta, una verita. "Il giudizio," -- i giurati pronunciarono il loro verdetto -- noi ci siamo laureati. Ciao!

A WORD TO THE CLASS OF '93...

Four of five years ago many of us, pictured throughout the pages of this book, embarked on a very special journey. One that would serve its multitude of purposes and conclude on that sunny day, May 26, 1993.

Motivation was throughout the years, forever strong. We laughed, cried, yelled, pulled our hair and shared many experiences. Remember: Allow the integral spirit that guided us and saw us through to graduation to continue to have its positive influence on our daily lives. Whatever you do, take it a day at a time; CARPE DIEM!

If you think this is it for '93, think again! I challenge you to go through the book once more. I am sure you will see something different every time you do.

Editor-in-Chief

KING

Greetings, my dear yearbook consumers. This is my very own tiny, personal space in the 1993 yearbook. I'm glad that you took time to stop looking at the fabulous content herein and decided to read this piece. What I will be discussing here is a testament to honor, truth and wisdom.

But before I really get into my melodramatic, probably nonsensical ranting, I would like to dedicate this book to PARENTS - to the Moms and Dads of every student who has ever walked the halls of MSC. I furthermore dedicate this book to my parent, my Mom, Ms. June P. Kulick. In fact there she is on the opposite page. I have to say that I owe everything to her. I got my love for reading from her and my compassion. She has been my greatest supporter, and to support me is no small feat to be sure. She has been my greatest critic and above all my friend. People in the yearbook office throughout this year will testify that when I called her or she called me, I always said to everyone, "It's my mommy." Thank you very much, Mom. I love you.

I suppose I could use this space to do thank you's and the like. I'll start on the organizational level with the College Life Union Board, La Campana, the Zeta Mu chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi and Alpha Phi Omega thanks a lot. Sometimes it was hard, but it was all worth it; they are all great organizations.

Okay, here are some condemnations for ya. The SGA Executive board was very poor this year. The only people who did a good job were Rich Kunze and Rob Tranter, and Rob is a D.A.D. Gouri, is the coffee ready yet? Jane, are you really talented in that special way? Who will I miss on the SGA Legislature? I'll miss Ritu Chib because of her beauty, sensuality and strong sense of fairness and equality. Ritu, it does not matter what you look like in a picture; none of them compare to the picture of you that I carry in my heart. I'll miss Robin Merkel; you look great in a bikini. I know you will be successful in teaching and modeling. I'm surely going to miss Alexandra Pratt. Alex you are beautiful and smart. You possess a wonderfully free spirit, and you are not afraid to be an individual. This is such an important human quality to have. You are very lucky.

Now it is time for a little story: The 1993 SGA banquet. I was looking forward to this because in my humble yet assured opinion, La Campana was going to receive the Class I of the Year award. Look at the evidence. Our staff was responsible for the completion of two books, and we weathered a lot of problems that had accumulated from the previous year's staff. Okay it's the night of the banquet the food is crap, but hey, I'm going to be getting an award. I am feeling no pain. We go through hours of inanely boring and insipid plaque and certificate distribution to a pack of spoiled babies, i.e. the SGA. The Class I announcement is then awarded by Gouri. She first announces the most improved (I won't say which one because I don't wish to use this space for any advertising.) Darling Gouri then announces the Class I of the year (drum roll). It wasn't mine! That proletariat filth totally cuts us off from our rightful recognition. The only recognition that we got was Gouri telling me, "Walt, you did a great job."

I don't begrudge all the time that I have put into this organization. I did it because I wanted to do a good job, and I thought I did. I had a lot of fun, met a lot of people and got a lot of experience with book publishing. I would like to thank Jerry Salomone for his indispensable help throughout the year. He gave me many pointers and actually did a section of the book. He is an expert at his craft and a gentleman.

Let's see, who else am I going to miss. I am definitely going to miss Angelina Chilemi. Angelina you are the essence of beauty - you are a goddess. You've probably heard this a million times, but you are every man's dream come true. I'm going to miss Corrine, Alison, Gina, Demetra and Selina. You are all in my dreams. Jaime was a great friend; he almost got me killed a few times. George O. was a great friend; remember to palpate all the good parts. I am going to miss Jennifer Jaquith. Jenn, you are also beautiful (disclaimer-I realize that I have used the adjective "beautiful" more than a few times, but all the women that I have mentioned are beautiful; anyway this is my section and I can say whatever I want.) I know it seemed that we were at odds at different times, but to tell the truth I was only B.S.-ing. There was never a problem. I just like causing trouble and being a jerk. I'm going to miss Christine and Mary at La Campana. I may need a doctor or lawyer one day. I'm sure you won't charge me.

And now I'll talk about my bosom buddies Sam Rock and Dano Olawski. Rockmeister and Duma. There's their picture at the lower left. I first met Sam at the first CLUB meeting three years ago. From that fateful meeting, he has forged an unbridled path of liberalism that I have come to respect because he backs it up with intelligent repartee. He is also a zany nut, who loves fun and is as best a friend as any dog. We have done many crazy things at and to, Montclair State. I know he'll be a friend of mine forever. I'll proudly bounce his kids on my knee. Sam will say nice 'Uncle Wally'. One of the best things that he did is wear a funky, stringy, greasy, nasty wig to Pizza Hut and then to the mall. It was hilarious watching people's reactions. He is a man of compassion, and sensitivity who has a desire to help everyone. Thanks for everything Sam BOO! Dumabpoplous. Dano we call him, I met Dano, hmm, let's see, in the summer of '92. I started to crash at Clove Road the summer of the beginning of his term of office as SGA Executive Secretary. We have been pals ever since. Believe me, it seems like a trillion years. That isn't true he has been a great friend to me. He is a man of great convictions and an obsession with airplanes. That fits since his head is among the stars. Another untruth. Dano, Mr. Dinky says, "Hi!" He's waving right now. I remember those times at the SGA meeting when I clerked for him, and Suzie, the V.P., would say "I'm gonna separate the two of you," because we had so much fun. We will also be friends forever. It looks like I have run out of space. For all those I may not have mentioned, I love ya! Bye! MSC, Memories for a lifetime. Last Call. Omega.

Photo Credits

This page is dedicated to all those photographers who applied their craft, interest, hobby, skill and, most importantly, time, to bring this book to life. This year's credit page is in the form of a roll call. They are: Emily Ortiz, Walter J. Kulick, John O'Brien, Nancy Villano, Mary Villano, Angelina Chilemi, Raoul Rodriguez, Laura Carreras, the great crew from Merrin Studios i.e. Rich, Steve and Jim. So many people have submitted pictures this year, it is very difficult to quantify them all, so I'll just say that you are the reason that this book looks so good. Your collective works were greatly appreciated.
